3. Given current conditions, what level if any of uses such as "domestic" and "stock watering" should be excepted from regulation by the U.S. v. Anderson water master due to their de "minimus" effects on Chamokane Creek?

Factual Questions for Issues 2 and 3:

- A. Do all surface and ground water uses in the middle and lower Chamokane areas impact flows in Chamokane Creek?
- B. What are the cumulative impacts of I) claims registry use and ii) permit-exempt wells on the flow in the Chamokane Creek?
- C. If there are any impacts identified in questions A) and B) that are sufficiently large to affect the flows, how do those impacts affect the frequency and severity of regulation by the water master?
- D. Is there a level of domestic or stockwater use that is too small or difficult to regulate? If so, what is that level?

(Ct. Rec. 596 at 2-3; Ct. Rec. 594, Response of the State of Washington, Department of Ecology, the Spokane Tribe, the United States (hereinafter the "government parties").)

IT IS ORDERED:

All necessary studies shall be completed and published no later than August 15, 2009. The factual studies anticipated by the government parties involve the compiling and gathering of geologic and hydrologic data (surface water and ground water data), analyzing historical aerial photographs and other materials to approximate the extent of irrigation and other water uses, and preparing a groundwater model to determine impacts from various ground and surface water uses on Chamokane Creek. The studies undertaken by the government parties shall include addressing the foliage excavation issue raised by Mr. Pemberton.
- 2. The costs of the earlier described studies shall be borne by the government parties only. However, if other parties choose to conduct additional studies, they may do so at their expense and shall complete and publish no later than August 15, 2009.
